Designing a healthier Gold Coast city

Former Gold Coast City Council Architect Philip Follent will give a free public lecture on how to create healthier and more equitable suburbs, towns and cities.

Mr Follent, a founding member of Gecko in 1989 and now the Queensland Government Architect, will return 'home' to speak on this important subject.

The focus of the presentation will be on the urban environment and the important roles that creativity, urban design and inspirational leadership play in the pursuit of making healthier, more liveable built environments.

There is no more important time than now to be acting to create a healthy, liveable Gold Coast city, with rapid population growth and increased density of living spaces over the coming years.
