

Twelfth Hour Climate Change Workshop Series 2010 Workshop 2 of 3

Forget GDP, let's talk about the Steady State - Civil Action on Climate Change

PRESENTERS

Dr Neil Sipe, Associate Professor, Head of Discipline, Urban and Environmental Planning, Griffith University, Gold Coast campus

Andrew Wilford, Associate Professor, School of Sustainable Development, Bond University, Gold Coast

FACILITATOR

Lois Levy, Secretary, Gecko
Gold Coast and Hinterland Environment Council

“The Steady State” The various crises that impact our current world, such as climate change, peak oil, and water and food shortages, demand that a different system of production and consumption be developed along sustainable lines.

Rather than committing to an endless (destructive) mantra of economic growth, the steady state seeks to limit variations in production and consumption, and population numbers, to levels that promote sustainable ways of living.

- So what is the steady state?
- Why is this important in achieving a sustainable, and by implication, peaceful and just, world?
- What as active citizens can we do to help bring about a steady state?

Future Twelfth Hour workshops in 2010:
Workshop 3 | Can Transition Towns work on the Gold Coast?

Thursday 5th August 2010
6.30pm - 8.30pm
Griffith University, Gold Coast,
Building G39, Lecture Theatre 1.17

RSVP by 31st July to Gecko by
Email: info@gecko.org.au
Ph: 5534 1412

Your opinion matters!
Come and have your say.

Gecko wishes to encourage all attendees to utilise public transport where possible.

HOW TO GET TO GRIFFITH UNI GOLD COAST CAMPUS
<http://www.griffith.edu.au/about-griffith/campuses/gold-coast-campus/how-get-griffith>

PARKING - FREE
Free parking is limited to availability along Parklands Drive

PARKING - PAID
Enter Engineering Drive (1st left after turning into Parklands Dve from Smith Street).
Enter the large multi-storey car park (1st left). $5 in coins will be required. Walk approx. 5 minutes along Parklands Drive, left into Alumni Place

FURTHER DETAILS ABOUT PARKING
<http://www.griffith.edu.au/about-griffith/campuses/gold-coast-campus/parking>

Note: Parking in Alumni Place is only for Permit holders